

Review of: "Knowledge among Health care workers (HCWs) regarding biomedical waste management (BMW) during COVID-19 Pandemic"

Parul Saxena<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Sharda University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Though the theme of the research is very relevant to the current times , the manuscript miserably fails on account of academic writing and methodology. Abstract is vague and does not highlight the novelty of the work or the practical implications. The methodology used to determine the sample size and the questionnaire used have not been elaborated. The article needs thorough copy editing as there are several syntax , spelling errors and tense is scattered. Conclusion detailing out the practical implications of the research are completely omitted. Citations need improvement. Though the efforts of the authors are appreciated, this manuscript requires a major revision before publication.