Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The work makes a study of the relationship between health outcomes and economic growth, focusing on the impact of malaria on economic growth in Nigeria. The economic factor will not depend solely on malaria because in the region, there are other epidemics that cause expenses and cannot be excluded from the study.

Major revision

- 1- Review the English of the document thoroughly as it presents deficiencies.
- 2- Improve the structure of the work regarding sections and subsections.
- 3- Improve the resolution of the images because the curves are very weak.
- 4- It is necessary to better explain the images and tables (captions).
