

Review of: "The Support and Rehabilitation of Refugees – Personal Opinion and Experience"

Mehrdad Eftekhari Ardebili¹

¹ Iran University of Medical Sciences

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

By sharing the perspective of a mental health professional, the publication could indeed provide valuable insights into the attitudes, feelings, and needs of both refugees and the service delivery workforce. This could lead to a deeper understanding of the challenges faced by refugees and the professionals who assist them, fostering empathy and potentially inspiring others to engage in similar work.

The manuscript's personal and firsthand accounts can contribute to the broader discourse on mental health and refugee support, shedding light on the complexities of the field. Readers, whether they are fellow professionals, researchers, policymakers, or the general public, may gain a more comprehensive understanding of the human aspects involved in working with refugees.