Thank you for the opportunity to review the article 'The relative importance of the SDG Pillars'. It's a good effort and worth publishing. However, there are a few things that need to be improved to make it more comprehensive.

1. There is no literature review section in this research article. Please add a literature review of the study which highlights the SDGs' importance and addresses the 5P's.
2. In Table 2, the Middle East and North Africa source is provided as Wikipedia. Please add only scholarly references. The same is the case with low-income countries; its source is unidentified.
3. The introduction section lacks three major pillars: rationale of the study, objectives, and significance of the study. Please add these sections to it.
4. Last but not least, please provide policy implications and future insights at the end of the research study.
