

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Severe hereditary thrombophilia due to congenital protein S deficiency

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Severe hereditary thrombophilia due to congenital protein S deficiency. ORPHA:743

Congenital protein S deficiency is an inherited coagulation disorder characterized by recurrent venous thrombosis symptoms due to reduced synthesis and/or activity levels of protein S.