

Review of: "The Consequences of Political and Economic Choices: Exploring Disaster Vulnerability with the Structure, Resource, and Behaviour Change model (SRAB)"

Adrian Cashman

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The description of the research methodology is well set out and explained.

Reading the article I felt that in places the authors needed to include more explanation to assist readers not familiar with aspects such what they understand by saline intrusion, rice cultivation and the role of the hydraulic structures in facilitating cultivation. Further comments are given in the pdf of the paper.