

Review of: "Measuring the Effectiveness of Internship Programs in Aligning Education with Industry: A Comprehensive Analysis of Internship Outcomes in the College of Communication and Media During COVID-19"

Pavel Krpálek¹

¹ University of Economics Prague

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article deals with a current topic, is interesting, and is beneficial for a relatively broad discussion that takes place in the given field of science. I would recommend shortening the abstract, updating and supplementing the sources used, and projecting the results of desk research and theoretical methodological starting points into the discourse with the results of the own investigation in the form of a discussion. Only subsequently would the conclusions make more sense and be more consistent.