The overall work is good. However, there are a few observations:

01. The overall write-up of the manuscript could have been improved. The problem is not formulated properly. Relevant literature is not reviewed properly. The implementation details are not presented thoroughly. Moreover, the analysis of the results could have been improved. The paper is not concluded properly. The references are also very limited.
02. Section 3 should contain details about the programming methodologies involved in the work.
03. Relevant literature on data preparation should be referred to.
04. The above points may be considered to revise the manuscript before publishing the paper.
