

Review of: "The anti-staphylococcal activity of probiotic-contain gelatin and whey coatings on processed chicken breast"

Ilizandra Aparecida Fernandes<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> URI Campus de Erechim

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This research is relevant for publication, demonstrating that the methodology applied has potential for applicability. However, in relation to item 2.4, was the weight of the sample evaluated in relation to the immersion time? Was this time chosen based on any preliminary study? Was the temperature during the 2 minutes of contact room or refrigerator? It would be interesting to evaluate the color of the samples throughout storage, as the visual aspect is extremely relevant for the end consumer.