This article has lack of different standard headings. Instead of explaining under different criteria's its has be completely represented in the introduction section.

Instead of bringing with a huge introduction it should have been cutdown into different areas and a discussion part can also be included for further information.

Before saying it can be used as a therapeutic drug different baseline tests has to be conducted or some commenting regarding that can be given.

Regarding the type of article no evidence is there to understand.

It would be much better if some information are given in tables, graphs etc.

This article has to modified with Introduction, discussion and so before its publication.
