

Review of: "Government expenditure and economic growth: evidence from the critical sectors in an emerging economy"

Milka Grbić<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Kragujevac

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic of this paper is current and therefore deserves attention. In general, empirical examination of the effects of government expenditures on economic growth is a multidimensional procedure. In conclusion, the authors can provide a broader explanation of why this research is important to readers globally. In addition, I only recommend that the authors expand the conclusion to compare the findings with current findings in the research field.