This article is very interesting. Providing new information related to educational culture. Several things need to be considered to make this article even better:

- a. The research methods section, such as subject selection, needs to be more detailed.
- b. In the section that reviews the situation that in early classes students may not attend and lecturers do not teach, it is necessary to emphasize deeper social stigma in relation to history and culture.
- c. Several alternative solutions seem to need to be suggested.
