Overall this research is very interesting. Researchers discussed in detail the role of banks in small and medium businesses in Indonesia by linking from various aspects. However, I think this still needs to be developed again in scientific aspects, especially research methodology and data analysis.

This paper is only in the form of an appropriate article to be published in newspapers.

And not suitable for publication in scientific journals because there is no scientific value caused by no methodology and analysis data.

I suggest the authors to revise this paper in order to meet the scientific publication.
