

Review of: "The Use of Generative AI in an Interdisciplinary Approach for Cultural Preservation"

Rawan Ghnemat<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Princess Sumaya University for Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

While the overall concept is promising, there are some technical aspects that need further refinement. Specifically, more attention should be given to the implementation details of each component.

For instance, it would be beneficial to provide specific details on which generative models will be adapted based on different scenarios. Additionally, addressing the potential challenges that may arise during the adaptation process would greatly enhance the practicality and feasibility of the framework for real-world applications.