The paper has very limited significance, which should be enhanced for global reachability.

1. What is the novelty of the present study when compared to the existing literatures?
2. The abstract of the paper should provide the findings of the present study.
3. Introduction regarding the shortcomings of the previous literatures followed by the novelty of the present study has to be addressed.
4. The research significance has to be enhanced at the last paragraph of the introduction section.
5. The sketches provided in the paper are incomplete (says no units).
6. The paper comprises too many figures and tables; looking like a review paper, it is suggested to enhance the discussions based on the results from the study.
7. The outcome of the paper has to be given based on the experimental study.
8. Further, a comparison with the existing literature has to be made to enhance the accuracy of the present study.
9. Most of the literatures are quite old; it is suggested to quote the recent literatures.
