- Abstract is out of formatting. The text should be in just one paragraph;
- Abstract must contain the objective of the research, the methodology, and the results achieved. The text does not present all these elements;
- The authors present several stages of the platform development process, however even an article that deals with the stages of product development needs to follow a formal scientific structure;
- Missing a section with the methodology used in the study. Indicating the approach for product development (theoretical basis);
- A section of the literature review was missing that dealt at least with the methodological approach of the study. Similar studies;
- There are several images on the platform that are not necessary for a scientific article;
- There is no dialogue between the results and the existing literature;
- Few references were used;
- Summary conclusion;
- In conclusion, the article needs to become scientific. Not just an experience report.
