Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The title should be revised for purpose and clarity
2. The abstract should be thoroughly revised as it does not reflect scholarly spirit but rather goes through the operational flow of the study
3. The main premise of the study is lack of studies, why so? A clear and compelling need for the study is missing and should be established clearly
4. The literature lacks a clear synthesis of the existing work but rather provides summary of individual papers. It should at least provide and establish a case for the existing study. In addition, no literature review protocol is followed.
5. The methodology followed is text book however, many redundant information can be omitted.
6. Same is the case with findings. Instead it should at least be compared and contrasted with the existing evidence.
