Discussing Curvenote in for the purpose of writing papers is topic with novelty. Scholars need to suggest/recommend such kinds of writing procedures and tools that result fostering students' writing skills. I appreciate authors' endeavors for composing an article with such a great idea. However, I will provide the following suggestions to assist author make this interesting paper more precise and publishable:

1: the detailed explanations sometimes make readers bored, so it is suggested to avoid unnecessary details throughout the paper.

2: it is suggested to link the potential of Curvenote with other such tools that are used for writing and researchers already conducted studies about it (if any).

3: to provide a few more references in order to draw a much clear theoretical big picuture of Curvenote and its significance use in writing.
