The written article is a good article, and it will be suitable for printing with changes in the writing and management of the article sections.

In the method section, the working method can be presented in more detail, and some of the results section can be transferred to this section.

In the conclusion section, the application of the results obtained in the investigated region should be presented with more practical details, and the benefits of the study regarding the different layers studied should be explained further.

It's better the article be revised in terms of writing.
