In general, it is a very interesting study indeed, but a few comments are appropriate, specially:

- consider the opportunity to develop some specific agritourism proposals based on the most iconic agri-food products in Zimbabwe, identifying the products, the value chain, and the main infra-structures that support this activity. I think that can be explored in the section 6.
- contextualize the tourism demand in Zimbabwe and legal support to justify this proposal (Section 1).
- point 5 is repeated.
