The paper is attractive for many applications, and its subject is updated. However, some changes must be made before the final approval of the paper. They are:

- 1) The abstract has been briefly written and should be enriched by adding the main ideas and contributions.
- 2) The main contribution of the paper and its importance should be highlighted and emphasized. It would be great if the drawbacks and gaps of literature were apparent and, mainly, how the proposed approach aims at filling these gaps.
- 3) The results deserve a better explanation and discussions of the results.
- 4) Comparisons with other existing methods are suitable.
