

Review of: "Increasing Renewables and Building Retrofit in a Coal-Based Cogeneration District Heating System"

Md Milon Uddin¹

¹ University of Texas at Tyler

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This manuscript tackles a significant topic and presents noteworthy findings about the function of energy integration and efficiency in district heating systems. The work is intriguing, but it could be made much more impactful and understandable by improving its clarity, adding more context, and including more quantitative data to support it.

Rewrite the abstract to highlight the findings, goals, and range of your investigation.