

Review of: "Fishing Rods for Magic: Theatre Forum Tools to Support Primary School Students' Active Engagement in Computer-Supported Collaborative Storytelling"

Zihua Wu

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The intention and the problem that the paper trying to discuss and solve is interesting. I like the idea of using digital technology to engage and enhance the inclusiveness in student learning.

I would recommend

1. the first part of the article need to reword a bit. It feels repetitive when I read some part and I felt that I read that early in the section already.
2. There's a mistype "t5ranslated" under Figure 5.
3. And I also think it need to restructure to make it easy to understand. The idea in each section need to be more clear and linked. Some of the conclusion points could be more connected and explicit in the previous sections.

Otherwise, well done and congratulations on identifying such an interesting topic.