

Review of: "Using concepts related to research design while writing thesis and dissertation at universities: questioning the status quo"

Dr Chinny NZEKWE-Excel

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The goal of the study suggests an essential focus point, which should hopefully trigger helpful academic debate. However, the article lacks obvious depth. For a start, the title of the article does not provide clarity on the purpose of the study and so will need revising. Subsequently, the supposed narrative review lacks rigour, and will benefit from providing robust/ evidence-based discussions and associated critical evaluations.