

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

Samreen Gillani

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

overall a good start to compare a two different economies in the sustainability context but would be better if empirically tested by the variables represent, the policy implementation in case of sweden or climate challenges face by India to measure the most possible effects. Also needs some elaborative examples in both cases.