Thank you for the opportunity to review this manuscript. Overall a good study with valuable data, only the following should be noted:

In the literature review section, review the studies of Alex Brewis about water insecurity.

In the research method section, the sampling calculation should be done with Cochran's formula.

In the findings section, the percentage of the columns of each chart should be displayed on the chart.

In the discussion and conclusion section, the contribution of the study should be highlighted.
