Good Evening!

I will structure systematically as per the chronology I came about.

The article essentially deals with One Health, which is a broad domain. Thus, the approach should be a broad to specific one.

The article provides input into conceptual grounding well. The input of the interface between the epidemiological triad and One Health, with the specifics of mosquito-borne diseases, can be discussed.

The article seems to be a conceptual review but requires clarity on the methodological process of review.

The role regarding promotion of behaviour change communication for prevention of mosquito-borne diseases can be included.

The conceptualization of intersectoral linkage and convergent action can be explained in the context of Indonesia—who are the stakeholders working together, and who are the stakeholders that can further enhance the effort.

Thanks,
