This is a fine paper that updates the reader thoroughly. I just would like to see more done with nonmaterialist views. Bennett and Hacker's The Philosophical Basis of Neuroscience is a good source, as is Kelly, Crabtree, and Marshall's Beyond Physicalism. I do not see a serious debate with "the other side," which would also include Thomas Nagel. Good paper for summarizing the scientific and evolutionary perspective. But many good thinkers, like Sir John Eccles, resisted this perspective.

Cheers,
