

Review of: "Generating Smart Goals of Engineering Education Institutes in the Fast-Developing Countries"

Toran Talwar¹

¹ Sharda University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

"Generating Smart Goals of Engineering Education Institutes in Fast-Developing Countries: India's NEP 2020" is a well-executed research article that provides valuable insights into the integration of educational policy within the engineering education sector. The study's clear methodology, comprehensive literature review, robust analysis, and interdisciplinary approach contribute significantly to the discourse on education policy and practice. Though a more rigorous and transparent approach would have significantly enhanced the study's overall validity.