Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper evaluates the past energy policies on available sources of energy that are providing energy for Nigeria and the UK. The overall writing of the article is more standardized and complete, which can be further improved from the following aspects :

The research purpose and innovation of the article are not clear. It should be further clarified in the introduction. For example, why did the article study Nigeria and UK, and what are the differences and connections between the two ?

The abstract of the article is long. The abstract part should be further streamlined, and the research content and results should be clearly explained.

In the literature review part of the article, the logical thinking can be further clarified. Supplement some new literature.

The main conclusions of the conclusion part are not clear, and some of the research results can be put into the discussion of the results above.
