

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Familial avascular necrosis of femoral head

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Familial avascular necrosis of femoral head. ORPHA:86820

Avascular necrosis of femoral head (ANFH) is a severely disabling disease characterised by progressive groin pain, a limping gait, leg length discrepancy, collapse of the subchondral bone, limitation of hip function and eventual degeneration of the hip joint requiring total hip arthroplasty.