General comments

The paper is informative technical report, but from research point of view it lacks the:

- Problem definition
- Methodology flowed to reach those results and conclusions
- I can't get what new findings is from this study

Specific comments

- In the abstract, what methodology is applied to generate the spatial footprints of noise emission by air traffic movement is not clear. Thus this could not the entry point to read the whole paper
- As an introduction, what specific problem at the airbase Waterkloof that initiate this study should be clearly defined? To may view the problem statement is not well defined just talking about general truth that could happen at any Airbase.
