Review of: "Artificial Intelligence & Nature-Based Solutions in Agriculture: A BT Cotton Pest Management Case Study in India"

Sarah Altino[1]

1 Universidade Federal de Uberlândia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article in question presents a case report. I believe it needs to undergo a revision in the English language to better incorporate some technical terms. It concerns a case report on the application of AI, highlighting its success and opportunities for improvement. However, the computational method, dataset characteristics, the type of algorithm, training characteristics, and traditional metrics described in machine learning modeling were not explicitly stated. This leaves the results, although robust, quite vague.