

Review of: "Biological Components in Cucumbers (Cucumis Sativus L.): Implications for Pickle Manufacturing and Health Benefits in Fresh and Processed Varieties"

Maria Lima¹

¹ Polytechnic Institute of Viseu

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Congratulations on reviewing the most generally important qualities of this vegetable!

This work is generally interesting regarding the nutritional properties of cucumbers, but it lacks innovation. I believe that the title should be changed, namely by introducing the term "revision"...

The work needs some major changes, namely concerning some scientific aspects; Cucumis sativus has to be written in italics, and the presented table should have the 2 components of the presented work: natural and pickled cucumber, with clear reference to the authors of the table and the RDA explanation.

Some sentences (ideas) are repeated in different words.

With some minor revisions, I believe it should be published.