

Review of: "AI in Healthcare: The New Frontier of Inequality"

Alexandra González Aguña

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript is not focused on one topic. The title and content do not correspond because the manuscript addresses several topics, and the author seems to focus on the simulation of empathy when the title focuses on inequality.

The structure is not clear; it presents several topics but without going in depth and with a limited vision.

Although the topic is of interest, both inequality and the simulation of empathy, the author has to choose a topic and delve deeper into it or take a critical position.

The bibliography is missing some data and can be substantially improved to take a position on any of the topics that the author deals with.