Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In recent times, similar papers have been published in huge numbers.

In this regard, the authors have to claim the novelty of their manuscript.

Going through the manuscript, I found that the authors have drawn conclusions from a questionnaire containing only TWO questions. How far is it acceptable?

The authors need more data and some statistical analysis to support their conclusions.

This manuscript can not be accepted in its current form.

Some sections of the manuscript, specifically Section "Online or traditional teaching?" contain much-plagiarized content.

Authors are strictly suggested to rewrite the above-said section.

The references could be better. The authors are suggested to review the latest papers in the relevant domain.
