

Review of: "Social-Cultural Anthropology in the Oldest Department of Anthropology in India: Writing History or the Suppression of Records?"

Eswarappa Kasi¹

¹ Indira Gandhi National Tribal University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is a well structured anthropological piece with holistic discussion of social- cultural anthropology in the oldest department of anthropology in India. The paper came at the right time and where we (anthropologists and other social scientists) keep talking about beyond the boundaries of any discipline due to the growing pace of interdisciplinary approach. Further, it is also bringing forth the hidden nuances of the discipline by one of the leading scholars of our times. The author has vividly portrayed historical and chronological development of Social-Cultural Anthropology under the aegis of great doyens of Calcutta Anthropology. I really appreciate the author for this great piece of work, which is a very important contribution to the current generation of students, scholars and anthropologists of India and outside India.