

Review of: "Assessing Sex Education Awareness Among Higher Secondary School Students in India"

Anand Prakash

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article "Assessing Sex Education Awareness Among Higher Secondary School Students in India" lacks a statistical approach to support the hypothesis. It presents only questions and responses without discussing the methodology behind the results. Additionally, there is a need for a detailed discussion on how the findings benefit the public. Addressing these issues would strengthen the article's credibility and relevance.