Major revision of the article.

We make remarks that the authors must take into account before giving our opinion for any validation of the article.

These remarks are as follows:

- the problem is not clearly identified, which does not show the originality of the article.
- we would like the literature review to be in the introduction.
- a figure which describes the problem treated is necessary.
- it is very important to number all the mathematical expressions and/or (equations, inequalities)
- in the first mathematical expression, it seems to me that the index 'i' on the second sum is not correct.
- the set K must be explicitly defined otherwise.
- the index 'i' of the expression O_i is not clearly known which does not give a better understanding of the formula.
- it is important to describe the instances on which the authors make their experiments.
- it is necessary to clearly present the results; to make an analysis of the results before making an interpretation.
- it is deplorable that the problem dealt with in this article rich in literature is not the subject of any recent reference.
