

Review of: "Empowering Minds: The Evolution of Higher Education in Tamil Nadu towards Innovation and Excellence"

Adekola Ashonibare

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper is well written and offers comprehensive coverage of the Indian higher education system in the state of Tamil Nadu. This paper could benefit from restructuring the paper considering the following observations for improvement.

1. Introduction section

The literature review section seems to be missing here. One way around this is to integrate "review of related literature" in the introduction section. While the paper already highlights the problem(s) indirectly, incorporating a clear "problem statement" and including a "research objective(s)/question(s)" within the introduction would offer added value to the academic community. This would enhance the clarity and accessibility of the paper's core focus, making it more beneficial to readers and researchers.

2. Methodology

How did you collect and analyse the data used in this research? Desk research? Consider justifying your method.

3. Results

The proposed reforms show a commendable level of promise; however, their substantiation with scholarly evidence would significantly enhance the academic rigor in the result section.