Thank you for the opportunity to read and review your manuscript. The theme and central idea are very interesting and address a little explored topic. The graphics and images in the article look great too. But it is necessary an English review, preferably by an English native speaker. I also suggest improving the introduction and discussion, since some arguments were superficial. There is no need to conceptualize things that are common knowledge, instead, take advantage of the space to cite epidemiological data, data from other strategies and previous studies, and draw parallels with the article. It is also important to better explore the biases and weaknesses of the project, as well as punctuate its external validity. I hope to have helped you improve your manuscript with this review.
