Review of the article titled "Willingness to pay for health insurance;a Comparative studybetween formal and informal health workers".

The article is a good one as health related issues are important to human beings and many people are facing such issues today in our society.

The method used by the researcher is also good , nevertheless I have these few suggestons;

* The researcher may have to make the inclusion criteria clearer and remove the exclusion because anyone not included in a study by the criteria, is automatically excluded.

* The tenses used in the begining of the paper shows that it is still on going but the end shows it has been conducted. if it has been conducted, then the researcher ought to present the results of the study properly including tables revealing the outcome.

* The researcher may like to include the age range of participants and their gender.
