Review of: "A population-based model for rationing COVID-19 vaccine"

Baksun Sung[1]

1 Utah State University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I think this paper is meaningful paper on rationing COVID-19 vaccine and vulnerable groups. To identify vulnerable groups, you used innovative approach. However, this paper has some problems.

First, in introduction, you were talking about rationing COVID-19 vaccines to vulnerable groups in the first paragraph. However, you abruptly changed subject in the second paragraph. In the second paragraph, you were talking about population-based models predicting viral pneumonia. Therefore, there is no connection between the two paragraphs. It should be possible to add some connecting sentences between each of your paragraphs to help guide the reader.

Second, what is your research question? In introduction, you need to mention about your research questions at the final paragraph.