

Review of: "Aquaponics Unveiled: Efficient Household Farming"

Elida Nora Ferri¹

¹ University of Bologna

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic treated in this paper is intriguing and it deals with the most visionary innovation in vegetables production: agriculture without soil. The style of the text is clear, correct, and fine. The description of the different layout of aquaponic systems is, however, quite superficial. Information you supplied in the text will not allow the unskilled reader to set up a functioning system. More details about costs, components' suppliers, This paper would be more suitable as a popular article published in a magazine addressed to home handymen.