Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Insufficient information on methodology, especially the statistics applied to data. What kind of data collection is this? And how is the data significant? Needs to be explained. Regression analysis or correlation analysis?

The objectives are not well defined. The researchers have aimed at alleviating the stressors, but in the end, a one-liner suggestion to alleviate the stressor will not justify the declared aim of the study. Make it a focal point to justify the impact of the study.

I just wanted to inform you that the data collection information is not elaborated sufficiently, as I am not finding the summary of the questions and their psychology or scientific justification of the selection of those questions. Why and how such questions were framed must be clear.
