The review is updated one. Authors have put up good effort. however following need to be incorporated before final publication decision:

- Methodology for collecting information data needs finetuned.
- The individual activities reported may concised as similar studies can be summed up in one paragraph and the text shortened.
- Unani medicine extensively mentions the bark gum of this plant known as Dammul Akhwain for its styptic activity which may be incorporated in the review.
- Discussion may be added
