

Review of: "Cadmium Toxicity Induced Changes on Antioxidative Enzymes Level in Fresh Water Catfish Channa Punctatus (Bloch)"

Manikantan P¹

¹ Christ University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This research abstract demonstrates a commendable effort in addressing a critical environmental issue concerning cadmium contamination in aquatic ecosystems, particularly focusing on its impact on Channa punctatus. The comprehensive approach, encompassing enzymatic and nonenzymatic assays, sheds light on the intricate biochemical alterations induced by cadmium exposure. This study not only contributes to academic knowledge but also emphasizes the urgent need for public health interventions regarding contaminated fish consumption.