

Review of: "A Dataset of Small-Mammal Detections in West Africa and Their Associated Micro-Organisms"

Olusesan Adelabu¹

¹ University of the Free State

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The review study conducted by David et al. is a well conducted study which has not only contributed to the pool of scientific knowledge but would become a great scientific resource which would mitigate some of the spatial and taxonomic biases in current databases to improve analyses of rodent-borne zoonotic pathogen spillover hazard across West Africa.