1. Introduction:

- The problem statement has not yet identified in this paper. Also, the objective is not clear.
- The structure of this paper also needs to be mentioned at the end of section 1
- The author needs an English person to do the proof reading before publishing

Please check the reference style

2. Theoretical review

The current section is in poor design without any compare and contrast with other previous studies. In this section, the author need to place the proposition for this paper, and come with hypothesis

3. Methodology

The section is not clear presented. The author needs to explain why the snow balling sample was applied? How was the sample size?

The data analysis is too simple, it needs to solid statistical analysis

4. Results and discussion

The current presentation in this section is not strong enough. The author needs to re-structure this section as below:

- Reliability analysis: since the liker scale was applied in this paper, then the reliability analysis is required
- Discriminant analysis:
- Path analysis

There should be a section on discussion.

5. Conclusion

The conclusion is not clear. Please rewrite this section probably
