

Review of: ""Sex" and "gender" as constitutional categories — Critical notes from iusfeminist legal dogmatics"

Giuseppina Scotto Di Carlo<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Naples - L'Orientale

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article addresses significant questions related to feminist perspectives, neutrality in law, gender-sensitive teaching and research, and the role of "sex" and "gender" in legal norms.

However, it appears to be in its very early stages of development. Further elaboration is necessary, providing a more robust theoretical framework and potential document analysis of judicial decisions. Such enhancements would contribute to stronger conclusions and ensure the article's acceptance and impact within the academic community.

Overall, while the article shows promise and tackles a relevant subject, it requires further refinement to meet the standards of a comprehensive scholarly publication. With additional development, it has the potential to make a valuable contribution to the field of legal discourse and gender studies.